

International Research Award for Young Constructors

The BRE Trust, in collaboration with the Worshipful Company of Constructors, would like to invite applicants for the Royal Charter International Research Award for Young Constructors.

We are seeking exceptional young individuals from the construction sector to undertake an innovative, topical study relating to construction, planning, design systems and processes or a market study in a country of their choice.

The winning applicant will receive £7k towards the cost of their study and the publication of their work through the BRE Trust publishing company; IHS BRE Press. A summary of the final report will also be published in Constructors Journal, the journal of the Worshipful Company of Constructors.

The Criteria

- The award is open to applicants aged 21-30
- The applicant will have achieved or will be working towards a recognised qualification for constructors
- Applicants will be expected to be in employment and have full support for the study from their employer
- The location of the applicant is not relevant but he or she must be available to attend review meetings and The Constructors Awards Dinner and presentation in London in February 2013

Format of application

Applicants are invited to submit a maximum of 1000 words to explain the nature of their suggested study and to demonstrate how the study would be used in the industry and also how it will help achieve significant personal development for the applicant.

For further information contact Dolores Kelly at the BRE Trust .
